polar photography

David McGonigal

Penguins, Polar bears, seals and ice all feature in 100 unique images of high latitudes. Greenland, Arctic Canada, Iceland and Spitzbergen are presented alongside Antarctica, South Georgia and Australia's Antarctic Territory. Of course icebergs, glaciers and sea ice of myriad forms and hues feature prominently. So too do the remarkable clouds over the frozen land and this is not surprising because the photographer is a high altitude sailplane pilot. Then there are the animals, from polar bears with their cubs to penguins and chicks, majestic albatross and bizarre walrus.

All the images in the exhibition (except the two digital flower photos) were shot on Fujichrome Velvia and have been printed on archival quality paper and mounted on thin and light, yet very strong, Forex backing board for secure transportation. Each signed image is part of a limited print run of only 30 images,

The price of each image is $400 (including GST for sales in Australia) and $50 from each sale will be donated to the "Save the Albatross" fund. Please email your order. Images will be shipped out as soon as payment is received.

In conjunction with this exhibition, David also has the last English-language copies of his definitive boxed book "Antarctica – the Complete Story" signed by both authors (and complete with accompanying CD). There are no other copies of this book still available anywhere in the world. As an exhibition special, this book with a recommended price of $A100, is for sale for only $A70 or $US50 (plus postage – this will be advised when your order is placed).

A collection of signed limited edition prints from David's extensive polar photography collection.

Antarctica – the Complete Story
Written by David McGonigal and Lynn Woodworth. Foreword by Sir Edmund Hillary.

about the artist

David McGonigal is an award winning travel writer, a very widely-translated author and an internationally-exhibited photographer.

A decade ago, David achieved his long-held ambition to visit Antarctica, the world's last great wilderness. He has since returned to Antarctica and the Arctic some 70 times. He has conducted courses on Antarctica for Sydney University with guests including Sir Edmund Hillary, Tim Bowden, Andrew Denton, Toni Hurley, Lincoln Hall and Phillip Law. He also led a voyage to Antarctica for the university and now leads trips to Antarctica each year.

David's photographs of the polar regions and the animal inhabitants of this frozen world have appeared in magazines and newspapers worldwide, and he has spoken on radio and appeared on television about Antarctica. He lectures on photography regularly.

David has twice travelled around the world on a motorcycle and, in 1998, he became the first person ever to motorcycle on all seven continents (including Antarctica). In fact he has spent a total of seven years on the road during his two world rides.

David McGonigal is the author/contributor/editor of some 15 books on Australia and travel in general. He is a past President (and Vice President) of the Australian Society of Travel Writers and is a Fellow of the Royal Geographical Society.

David has led treks in Nepal and cycling tours of China; hitch-hiked from Lhasa, Tibet to Kathmandu, Nepal (via Mount Everest); and conducted walking tours in New Zealand, Chile, Nepal, India, Botswana, and Borneo. As a Diamond-badged sailplane pilot he was part of a team that set an Australian national height record. As a certified scuba diver, David has dived much of the Great Barrier Reef, plus Fiji, Western Samoa, Tonga and Tahiti plus the Red Sea. He has whitewater rafted on several continents and he led trips down Tasmania's Franklin River and Nepal's Trisuli River and has run the Murray, Murrumbidgee, Nymboida and Johnstone in Australia, plus the Zambezi in Zimbabwe.

When he is not exploring the poles (or adventuring somewhere warmer) David lives in Sydney.
